The Inspection and Self-Evaluation Framework for Governance

Purpose and rationale of the Inspection and Self-Evaluation Framework for Governance

The Inspection and Self-evaluation Framework (ISEF) is a resource to support governors in their on-going process of self-evaluation and to provide transparency in the inspection process by the publication of key indicators of effective practice. It is designed to complement the phase specific ISEF intended for use by teachers and senior leadership across all sectors. The term learners is a generic term referring to learners in all the relevant phases of education. The term governor is a generic term referring to members of a board of governors. The safety of all learners is paramount, therefore safeguarding/child protection is a core element of the framework as is the care and welfare of learners; these are intrinsic to the holistic view of learning and should be visible in every aspect of the work of an education or training organization.

What is self-evaluation?

Self-evaluation is a process through which an individual teacher, groups of staff, the staff as a whole and senior management, including governors:

- ❖ reflect on their current practice;
- ❖ identify and celebrate the strengths of the school;
- ❖ identify and address areas for improvement in their work;
- ❖ engage in personal and shared professional development; and
- ❖ focus on improving the quality of learning and teaching, and the standards of achievement in the school.

Self-evaluation is a systematic process involving the staff and governors and, where necessary other members of the school community, such as, parents and pupils.

The process of self-evaluation:

- ❖ is ongoing and not a one-off event in the life of the school;
- ❖ requires an agreed approach to self-evaluation which is reflected consistently in the school policy documents;
- ❖ requires a positive ethos where self-evaluation takes place in a culture of openness, transparency and reflection;
- ❖ is sharply-focused, and involves monitoring and evaluating the effectiveness of existing provision and the learners' achievements;
- ❖ recognizes the need for the staff and governors to have a clear and agreed view of the school's current stage of development and, through the development planning process, to identify priorities which will have a positive effect on learning and teaching;
- ❖ informs and influences classroom practice and the quality of learning and teaching, and promotes development and improvement; and
- ❖ requires staff and governors to evaluate their work critically, reflect on the extent to which expectations are being realized in the work of their school, and establish a clear vision and future direction for the school.

The purpose of self-evaluation is to:

- ❖ promote school effectiveness;
- ❖ improve the quality of learning and teaching;
- ❖ improve the experiences of the learners; and
- ❖ raise the standards the learners attain.

This framework may be useful to:

- ❖ support governors with the development of their self-evaluation process;
- ❖ help senior leaders including governors to identify their strengths and areas for improvement;
- ❖ assist the principal, staff and governors to incorporate action for improvement in the school development plan; and
- ❖ monitor and evaluate the impact of the actions for improvement on the outcomes for learners.

Underpinning principles of self-evaluation

Whatever the context and circumstances of the school:

- ❖ the procedures used in the process of self-evaluation should be rigorous, comprehensive and fit for purpose;
- ❖ All those involved should be aware of the methods to be adopted and of their part in, and contribution to, the process;
- ❖ the evidence obtained should be both qualitative and quantitative and be externally verifiable;
- ❖ the sources of the evidence should include those generated by school and other agencies and departments;
- ❖ the views of learners, staff, parents and governors should be taken into consideration;
- ❖ first-hand evidence of the learners' outcomes should be an integral part of the process; and
- ❖ the outcomes of the evaluation should lead to action to achieve the intended school improvements.

Application of the Framework

During inspection, the ETI team use this framework to evaluate the quality of the strategic and corporate work of the board of governors.

For the purposes of self-evaluation, the framework is designed to enable governors to initiate or continue the process of self-reflection leading to improvement; it should be used to provide a holistic approach to self-evaluation and not as an inflexible check-list. The underpinning phase specific characteristics of effective practice, and the self-evaluation questions, should enable the governors to have in-depth discussions about specific aspects within the framework and stimulate challenge and debate about: the outcomes for learners; quality of provision; and leadership and management. These three key areas which are colour-coded form the basis of the framework. Care and welfare, safeguarding and governance influence all areas of school work and life. Within each key area are three sub-sections that contribute to the overall evaluation of that area and finally, taken holistically, an overall evaluation of school effectiveness.

The framework may also be used to support governors to reflect on their skills, knowledge and expertise to identify areas for further development in pursuit of high quality governance as it is recognized that governors may also need support and challenge. Importantly the framework may be used to ensure consistent high quality provision within organisations at important key transition points and ensure effective transitions for the learner from organisation to organisation within cluster or shared education arrangements.

Governors may select a section, and from that section choose an indicator(s) or question(s) to form a focus for discussion and support collaborative self-evaluation. Please note that not all indicators have corresponding questions. As a result of the debate and challenge stimulated by the characteristics and the questions, the board of governors should be able to discuss the strengths of the particular aspect under focus, any areas that require further development and the actions that are necessary to continue the improvement process. Depending on the area under discussion this process may take differing timespans, for example, to collect and collate evidence. Governors may wish to agree who will take the actions forward, resource implications, timeframes and monitoring arrangements. It is not enough to confirm that actions have taken place but rather to assess the impact of the actions on the outcomes for learners. Therefore an important part of the evaluation process will be gathering qualitative or quantitative data as evidence of improvement that can be presented to the wider community and other stakeholders.

Not all organisations are at the same stage of self-evaluation but the framework, characteristics of effective practice and self-evaluation questions will provide a generic model of reflection for those who are at the beginning of their evaluation journey as well as those organisations that are using well embedded procedures. The use of the ISEF for Governance is not mandatory for governors but may provide a framework for development and improvement at senior leadership level.

OUTCOMES FOR LEARNERS

Standards attained/progression and wider skills and dispositions.

Effective practice

Effective practice is demonstrated when:

- the governors promote consistently high standards of educational attainment/outcomes, behaviour and attendance through being well informed by senior and middle leaders and their own analysis of first hand evidence;
- the governors ensure that, at important key transition points, the learners progress successfully to the next stage of their education or employment/careers as relevant; and
- the governors support opportunities for the learners to develop wider skills and dispositions such as those outlined in the Curricular Guidance for Pre-School/NI Curriculum Primary/NI Curriculum Post-Primary (e.g. self-confidence, self-awareness, critical and creative thinking, decision making and respect for others) and develop insights into society and other cultures through participation in a range of activities within the organization and in the wider community through participation in a range of activities both in and out of school and to develop insights into society and other cultures.

Self-evaluation questions

- Do we know if the standards of achievement, behaviour and attendance by all of our learners, including those with barriers to learning, and/or with additional learning needs are good enough and where possible, compare well with learners in similar schools? (using benchmarking where relevant)
- How do we support the school to improve attendance levels and reduce suspension and expulsion rates? Are we addressing effectively the underlying reasons behind them?
- How well does the performance of discernible groups such as boys, girls, or those with free school meals entitlement (FSME) and newcomers compare with that of their peers in our school and other similar schools?
- How do we support the school in developing effective links with feeder organisations at key transition points?
- Do we know our leavers' destinations and how appropriate they are? How well-prepared are they to move on?
- What evidence is there that the learners are developing intellectually, socially, emotionally, physically and morally/spiritually?
- Do we facilitate a wide range of effective extra-curricular activities, for example, visitors, clubs, educational visits, work experience?

CARE AND WELFARE

Care and welfare

Effective practice

Effective practice is demonstrated when:

- there is a safe, secure and well-organised learning environment for all members of the school community;
- relationships for learning are characterised by mutual respect, openness and trust;
- the effectiveness of the personal development and preventative education curriculum is reviewed regularly to ensure that it is flexible and responsive to the needs of the learners;
- the learners' views are sought (in a stage appropriate way) and valued enabling them to be active contributors to the life and work of the school and to the local and global community; and
- the school works effectively with appropriate outside agencies to support the care and welfare of the learners and staff.

Self-evaluation questions

- What evidence do we have that we provide a safe and secure environment for all members of the school community, in line with health and safety requirements?
- How do we ensure that relationships are mutually respectful, open and trusting?
- How do we ensure that the personal development and preventative education curriculum is effective, flexible and responsive to the needs of the learners?
- What actual contact do we have with the learners in our school for example, school council, eco-council, attendance and engagement with learners at school events?
- How do we effectively address concerns raised by members of the school and wider community?
- How do we ensure that all learners are receiving the support they need to overcome potential barriers to learning both in school and through involvement of outside agencies?
